State and Federal Accountability Decisions

2005-06 State Accountability: MET

At the middle school level, the Nebraska Department of Education (NDE) bases state accountability decisions on these three areas:

- Performance on the state reading assessments (requires at least a "good" rating);
- Performance on the state mathematics assessments (requires at least a "good" rating); and
- Quality of the state reading and mathematics assessments (requires at least a "good" rating on each).

Key MET = Met indicator Not Met = Did not meet indicator < 30 = Less than 30 students

2005-06 Federal Accountability (AYP): MET (met 27 of 27 indicators)

Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) is the method used by the federal government to determine if school districts and schools have made adequate progress in improving student achievement. At the middle school level in Nebraska, AYP decisions are based on the performance of sixth-eighth grade students in these six areas:

- Performance on the state reading assessment (requires at least 71% of students proficient);
- Participation levels on the state reading assessment (requires at least 95% of students participating);
- Performance on the state mathematics assessment (requires at least 69% of students proficient);
- Participation levels on the state mathematics assessment (requires at least 95% of students participating);
- Performance on the state writing assessment (requires at least 61% of students proficient); and
- Quality of the state reading and mathematics assessments (requires at least a "good" rating).
